Dear Ms. Renschler:

It is my pleasure to apply for the position of Director of the Legislative Counsel Bureau. I believe my qualifications and nearly 25 years employment at the LCB places me in a strong position to provide the knowledge and experience necessary in this leadership role.

I have served as the Legislative Auditor and Chief of the Audit Division for the past 10 years, and am proud of my office's accomplishments during that period. While Legislative Auditor, I have issued over 130 reports to the Legislature on various state agencies, school districts, universities, and residential facilities for children. These reports have included recommendations that have resulted in significant cost savings and improvements in program efficiencies and effectiveness.

As Legislative Auditor I am responsible for responding to requests and questions from legislators, the public, and members of the media regarding audits. In providing these responses, I have had numerous contacts with press representatives from both southern and northern Nevada. This experience will be valuable in situations where the Director serves as the voice of the Legislature and the LCB.

In my years with the LCB, I have accumulated a great deal of knowledge and experience about governmental functions in the State of Nevada. While conducting legislative audits of many diverse entities, I have had the opportunity to analyze numerous methods and processes for accomplishing various governmental tasks. I have also had the opportunity to meet and work with leaders of many governmental organizations and learn from their management styles and approaches.

My learning experiences also included observing the Director of the LCB, and I have had near daily contact with the Director over the past 10 years. I have attended virtually every Legislative Commission meeting in the last decade, and am familiar with the Director's role in assisting the Legislative Commission with its important responsibilities. I also had the opportunity to periodically serve as the Acting Director when the Director was out of the office. Therefore, I am already familiar with many of the Director's day-to-day responsibilities and activities.

Heather Renschler

I have tremendous respect for the Nevada Legislature as an institution, and believe the Director of the Legislative Counsel Bureau plays a critical role in preserving the integrity, knowledge, and abilities of this institution. The LCB exists as a nonpartisan centralized agency serving both houses and members of all political parties. A high level of expertise has been developed over the years within the LCB, and it is important to ensure this expertise continues into the future. Like all state entities, the LCB has faced difficult times during the recent economic crisis. However, the LCB has met these challenges and is prepared to move forward in continuing to provide high-quality services to Legislators and the state as a whole, and I believe I possess the ability to help ensure this progression occurs.

Please see my attached resume for additional details regarding my experience and accomplishments, as well as the attached listing of references. I appreciate your consideration in selecting me as a suitable candidate for the position of Director.

Sincerely,

RESUME

Current Responsibilities

As Chief of the Audit Division, the Legislative Auditor performs respective duties assigned by law, the Legislative Commission, the Audit Subcommittee, and the Director of the Legislative Counsel Bureau. The mission of the Audit Division is to improve accountability and effectiveness of state government. This is accomplished by providing members of the Legislature with factual information concerning the operations of state agencies, programs, activities, and functions. The Audit Division consists of 30 positions when fully staffed, with a current annual budget of about $3.2 million.

Accomplishments

- Completed and submitted over 130 reports to the Legislature while serving as Legislative Auditor. These audits and review reports include state agencies, school districts, the Nevada System of Higher Education, and residential facilities for children.
- Reorganized management responsibilities and developed more efficient processes to ensure quality audits continued to be produced with fewer resources due to budget reductions.
- Improved communications with Legislators and the public by developing a one-page Audit Highlights sheet, revising the presentation of audit reports to a more user-friendly format, and enhancing the Audit Division's website.
- Successfully passed three Peer Reviews conducted every three years since 2003. These reviews ensure that the audits produced by the Audit Division are in compliance with the rigorous professional Government Auditing Standards established by the Comptroller General of the United States.
- Produced audits that resulted in measurable financial benefits of millions of dollars per year realized by agencies implementing audit recommendations.
- While performing statutorily required reviews of residential facilities for children, Audit Division staff identified issues that contributed to legislation designed to protect youth. Legislation included additional requirements for employee background checks in certain facilities and improved policies over the administration of medication to children.

- Legislative audits have resulted in recommendations to improve program effectiveness in numerous and diverse areas. These recommendations included:
 - Ensuring timely health inspections are performed to reduce the public's risk of exposure to illness, disease, or unsafe conditions in food establishments, school kitchens, and health care facilities.
 - Improving the control and distribution of prescription drugs for inmates by strengthening procedures over pharmacy operations.
 - Improved methods at the Department of Education to better monitor and document the teachers' license revocation process when criminal activity occurs.

- While serving as a member of the National State Auditors Association E-Government Committee, hosted the 2009 National State Auditors Association Information Technology Workshop and Conference held in Reno.

Education

University of Nevada, Reno, Bachelor of Science in Business Administration with a major in accounting.

Certifications and Membership in Professional Organizations

Certifications:

- Licensed as Certified Public Accountant (CPA)

KEVIN C. POWERS
Chief Litigation Counsel
LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL BUREAU
LEGAL DIVISION

LEGISLATIVE COMMISSION OF THE STATE OF NEVADA
COMMITTEE TO CONSULT WITH THE DIRECTOR

Dear Committee Members:

I am applying for the position of Director of the Legislative Counsel Bureau. As an attorney with the LCB's Legal Division for more than 15 years, I have dedicated my professional career to providing effective nonpartisan legal advice and professional services to the Legislature and its members in all aspects of the legislative process. I have also represented the Legislature and its members zealously and ethically in numerous settings outside of the legislative branch, including in meetings and proceedings before Nevada's governors, attorney generals and other executive branch officers and agencies, before Nevada's counties, cities and other local governments, and before federal and state courts as the Legislature's Chief Litigation Counsel.

During my tenure as a legislative lawyer, I have developed an expertise in constitutional law, legislative practice and procedure, and the methods of analytical research, statutory revision and bill drafting. I am regularly called on to advise the Legislature and its members on a wide range of complicated legal issues, including the validity of legislation under the Federal and State Constitutions, the separation of powers, the rules of statutory construction, and the legal principles developed by courts in case law and common law. Several of my written legal opinions concerning legislative practice and procedure under the Nevada Constitution have been entered into the Senate and Assembly Journals to establish parliamentary precedent.¹

As part of my legislative duties, I work closely with legislators from both major political parties and assist them in transforming their concepts, ideas and requests into well-written and constitutionally defensible legislation. See Kevin C. Powers, Inside the World of the Legislative Lawyer, NEVADA LAWYER Vol. 10, No. 7, at 7 (July 2002). When requested during sessions, I brief the majority and minority caucuses in each House on the scope, impact and consequences of legislation and answer questions on the floor of each House. I have served as Committee Counsel for many different legislative committees, and I have testified extensively in both Houses before the Committees of the Whole.² I frequently advise legislative committees regarding the Legislature's Standing Rules and the accepted customs and practices prescribed by treatises such as Mason's Manual of Legislative Procedure and Cushing's Law & Practice of Legislative Assemblies. I also advise legislative committees regarding Nevada's Open Meeting Law and First-Amendment principles governing public participation in government meetings.

Sess., at 25-26 (Feb. 26, 2009); Hearings on S.B. 160 before Assembly Comm. on Elections, Etc., 75th Reg. Sess., at 2-28 (April 30, 2009), and at 16-29 (May 12, 2009).

KEVIN C. POWERS
Chief Litigation Counsel
LEGISLATIVE COUNSEL BUREAU
LEGAL DIVISION

In addition to having testified in legislative proceedings, I have also testified as an attorney for the Legislature in other public forums, including before executive branch agencies, city councils and boards of county commissioners. Because of my knowledge of legislative and judicial procedure, I am often asked to respond to inquiries from the media regarding legal challenges to legislation, and I have been quoted in various publications explaining the legislative and judicial processes in a nonpartisan and politically neutral manner.

As Chief Litigation Counsel, I have briefed and orally argued many high-profile cases before the Nevada Supreme Court, the U.S. Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals and other state and federal courts, and I have briefed cases before the United States Supreme Court.³ When certain conflicts have arisen between the legislative and executive branches, I have participated in negotiations and talks with Nevada's governors, attorney generals and other executive officials in efforts to resolve the conflicts through mutual cooperation and compromise.

As a supervising attorney in the Legal Division, I supervise, review and evaluate the work product and services of professional and administrative staff. In my role as a supervisor, I set schedules and deadlines for staff, oversee and manage teams and working groups, and ensure the quality and timeliness of work product and division projects under the intense stress and demands of the legislative session and expedited court proceedings. I am knowledgeable in human resources management and employment law, and I have provided legal advice concerning disciplinary proceedings instituted under the LCB's Rules and Policies.

Throughout my career as a legislative lawyer and a litigator, I have thrived in the fast-paced and high-pressure environment of legislative sessions and complex litigation, both of which require extreme hours of intensive work and an unrelenting dedication to task. I have succeeded in these challenging and demanding circumstances because of my skilled analysis, professional judgment, advanced reasoning, and passion to produce the best results possible for the Legislature and its members. I am confident that my record of dedicated and successful performance as a legislative lawyer and a litigator, along with my experience and expertise with Nevada law and legislative procedure, demonstrates that I am a knowledgeable, decisive, credible, trustworthy and result-oriented leader who is an ideal candidate for Director of the Legislative Counsel Bureau. Thank you for your consideration, and I would appreciate the opportunity to discuss further my experience and abilities.

Sincerely,

Kevin C. Powers

Dear Ms. Renschler:

Thank you for taking time to speak with me regarding my application for the position of Director of the Nevada Legislative Counsel Bureau.

As Assistant Director of the Utah Legislature's Office of Legislative Research and General Counsel, I serve members of both political parties in both the House of Representatives and Senate. My life's professional work has been to help legislators solve problems and make good decisions by providing them with accurate, relevant, and timely information. I have relished opportunities to assist the legislature tackle significant public policy problems such as tax reform, child welfare, education accountability, and other issues.

State legislatures, especially citizen legislatures, deserve a loyal and capable staff to ensure that they are a strong and independent first branch of government. I welcome the privilege to serve the people of Nevada by serving their elected representatives.

Thank you again for this opportunity. My resume is attached. I look forward to speaking with you again at your convenience.

Sincerely,

Work Experience in the Utah Legislature's Office of Legislative Research and General Counsel

Assistant Director (Since 2004)

Major responsibilities include:

- Direct all aspects of the financial management of a $9.3 million budget.
- Assist the Director with numerous management and organizational issues of a 62 employee office including personnel policy, records policy, information systems, staffing decisions, procurement, and managing the office's equipment and furnishings.
- Coordinate with executive branch agencies regarding building maintenance, parking, security, human resources, financial transactions and reporting, and financial audits.

Major accomplishments include:

- Assisted in the acquisition of a PBX phone system and mobile phone systems for the legislative branch.
- Liaison to the Architect of the Capitol during a six-year renovation and seismic stabilization of the Capitol and new construction of the House and Senate Buildings. I participated in the design and advised the architect regarding numerous elements regarding the legislative space in these buildings.

- Improved the office's cost accounting and budget preparation and reporting procedures to simplify the budget setting process and provide better financial information to the office director.
- Standardized financial reporting and budget preparation processes for special legislative commissions and task forces.

(In addition to my duties as Assistant Director, I continue to provide staff assistance to the Legislature's revenue and taxation and business regulation committees during the General Session and interim.)

Policy Analyst (1982 - 2004)

Served as staff to multiple session and interim legislative committees and task forces. Providing staff support requires exceptional organizational skills to accomplish multiple and complex tasks. Working through the committee chairs, staff must ensure that meetings are well planned to meet deadlines and to allow adequate time for presenters and guests. Staff must also effectively convey the information policy makers need to make good decisions.

Highlights of selected major studies include:

- Conducted a comprehensive review and assessment comparing Utah's commercial waste facility fees to those in other states.
- Assisted a Legislator with the design and in assessing the revenue effects of an age-based motor vehicle fee system.
- Undertook a comprehensive study on sorting out the responsibilities between the state and counties regarding the governance of health, human service, and criminal justice programs resulting in increased county financial participation in mental health, substance abuse, and aging services.

- Participated in the policy and economic analysis as the Legislature considered and then adopted significant changes to the state tax system including lowering the sales tax rate on food, examining state severance taxes, improving taxpayer transparency in the property tax system, and adopting a new single rate individual income tax.
- Conducted a study defining how the intangible assets of a firm should be treated in determining its fair market value for property tax purposes. Prepared analysis on property tax revenue shifts under different policy options.

Teaching and Training Experience

Adjunct Faculty, Romney Institute of Public Management, Marriott School of Business, Brigham Young University. (Since 2002) Teach classes on public finance and budgeting to students pursuing graduate degrees in public management and public policy.

Dear Ms. Renschler:

Through this letter I would like to express my interest in applying for the position of Director of the Nevada Legislative Counsel Bureau. I am sending with this letter a copy of my resume, a salary history and a list of references as requested in the recruitment brochure.

As you will notice from my resume, I have been with the Legislative Counsel for all but a small portion of my professional career and am looking forward to my 18-year anniversary with the Bureau this summer. I have worked in two divisions of the Bureau, and I believe the experience gained from working in multiple divisions, provides me with a unique sense of the mission of the Bureau and the challenges it faces in the future.

I began my career with Legislative Counsel Bureau as a Deputy Legislative Counsel in the Legal Division. I drafted regulations and bills and completed legal opinions for members of the Legislature during my more than three years in that position. I then transferred to the Fiscal Analysis Division where I have analyzed and provided recommendations for various Executive Branch agency budgets, including budgets for the Department of Health and Human Services, the Department of Business and Industry, the Department of Public Safety and the Judicial Branch. I served as a Deputy Fiscal Analyst during the 2003 Legislative Session. In that role I was responsible for staffing the Senate Taxation Committee during its consideration of the Governor's proposals for increasing State revenues. I also assisted in staffing the Senate Committee of the Whole that met during the two Special Sessions that were required to resolve budget and revenue matters after the 2003 Legislature adjourned.

Since August of 2010, I have served as the Assembly Fiscal Analyst. In that role I have served as the primary staff to the Assembly Committee on Ways and Means and the Interim Finance Committee. I have also worked with the Senate Fiscal Analyst to manage the affairs of the Fiscal Analysis Division. In performing this role, I believe I have demonstrated an ability to work on multiple projects simultaneously while under tight deadlines. Jointly managing the Fiscal Division has enabled me to develop human resource skills, including adapting to employees' individual skills and personalities to benefit the organization as a whole.

I appreciate your consideration of my interest in the position and look forward to talking with you soon.

Sincerely,

Richard S. Combs

Dear Ms. Renschler:

By way of this letter and enclosed resume, I am expressing my utmost interest in applying for the position of Director of the Legislative Counsel Bureau.

As my resume indicates, I have been employed as non-partisan staff with both the Research and Legal Divisions of the Nevada Legislative Counsel Bureau for over ten years. During this time, I have served as the lead policy analyst to both the Assembly Judiciary (2001 Session) and the Senate Judiciary Committees (2003 and 2005 Sessions), and as legal counsel to the Assembly Judiciary and Assembly Corrections, Parole and Probation Committees (2009 and 2011 Sessions). Additionally, I have served as primary staff and legal counsel to interim studies on the Death Penalty, Child Welfare, Juvenile Justice, and Criminal Justice. Besides serving as policy analyst and legal counsel to standing and interim committees, I have also drafted research, legislation, and legal opinions in nearly every field of civil and criminal law.

Having worked in a senior management capacity within two divisions of the Legislative Counsel Bureau, I feel that I am uniquely qualified to lead such a diverse group of outstanding and dedicated professionals. Throughout my career, I have enjoyed a close working relationship with both the Legal and Research Divisions. Additionally, through my recent participation in the LCB Leadership Academy, I have gained tremendous insight into the Administrative, Fiscal, and Audit Divisions.

I would also like to briefly discuss my experience working for the City of Reno. As many legislators may recall, I served as the lead legislative manager for the City of Reno during the 2007 Legislative Session. While my work leading a team of City of Reno employees and consultants during the Session may prove invaluable, it is really the experience that I gained working in the City Manager's Office that provided a unique and valuable education to my managerial acumen. Being involved in the day-to-day operations of a governmental entity with over 1,600 employees has helped shape my vision for managing a large and diverse public employee workforce.

In addition to my work experience, I would like to highlight my educational background. I graduated near the top of my law class from Golden Gate University with a Doctor of Jurisprudence and a Master of Business Administration. It is the benefit of having both a law degree and a masters, that I feel sets me apart in my abilities to comprehend both the complex legal issues that arise within the legislative branch and also the organizational nuances of managing a public agency.

In closing, it has long been my desire to utilize my skills, by serving as non-partisan staff, working closely with the public, and giving back to our state, that has challenged me to remain committed to the Legislative Counsel Bureau. As Director of the Legislative Counsel Bureau, I would truly welcome the opportunity to continue to serve the 63 members of the Legislature, the 250-plus employees of the Counsel Bureau, and the citizens of the State of Nevada.

Thank you for the opportunity of applying for this appointment, and I look forward to meeting with you to further discuss my application.

Very truly yours,
