

Digest for Adopted Regulation R_075-11

The Peace Officers' Standards and Training Commission is required to adopt regulations establishing minimum standards for the certification, decertification, recruitment, selection and training of peace officers. (NRS 289.510)

Existing regulations adopt minimum standards for basic certification in several categories of training for peace officers and provide for the issuance, revocation and denial of basic certificates. (NAC 289.110-289.290) This regulation provides a procedure for a peace officer to voluntarily surrender a basic certificate: (1) as part of a termination agreement; (2) as part of a plea bargain in a criminal proceeding; (3) as part of a settlement agreement with the Commission; or (4) for any other reason. This regulation also provides a process for reapplication for a basic certificate after a peace officer has voluntarily surrendered a certificate.
