EXPLANATION – Matter in bolded italics is new; matter between brackets ~~omitted material~~ is material to be omitted.

AN ACT relating to crimes; providing that the holding of an account in joint tenancy does not, in and of itself, convey to the persons named on the account legal ownership of the account and the deposits and proceeds of the account in a manner that would preclude such a person from committing exploitation involving the control or conversion of any deposits or proceeds of the account or from being prosecuted for a crime involving the theft of any deposits or proceeds of the account; and providing other matters properly relating thereto.

Legislative Counsel’s Digest:

1 Existing law sets forth certain circumstances in which a deposit made in the 2 names of two or more persons creates an account held in joint tenancy. Existing law 3 provides, with certain exceptions, that the use by a depositor of the term “joint 4 account,” or a similar term, in designating the ownership of an account indicates the 5 intent of the depositor that the account be held in joint tenancy. If an account is 6 intended to be held in joint tenancy, existing law provides that the account or 7 proceeds from the account are owned by the persons named on the account.
8 (NRS 100.085)

9 In 1996, the Nevada Supreme Court held that the status of a defendant as a joint 10 account holder under NRS 100.085 did not preclude her conviction for theft of 11 money from the joint account because the jury could have concluded that the 12 criminal intent and actions of the defendant arose before she placed the money into 13 the joint account. (Walch v. State, 112 Nev. 25, 31-33 (1996)) In 2018, the Nevada
14 Court of Appeals determined that NRS 100.085 establishes a presumption that a

15 joint account holder has ownership of, and the authority to use, money in a joint 16 account. The Court held that, under the reasoning of the Nevada Supreme Court, 17 for a joint account holder to be convicted of theft based on the withdrawal or 18 misuse of money from a joint account, the State is required to establish that the 19 criminal intent of the joint account holder arose before the money was deposited 20 into the joint account. (Natko v. State, 134 Nev. 841, 843-44 (Nev. Ct. App. 2018))

21 Section 5 of this bill provides that the mere fact that an account is held in joint 22 tenancy does not, in and of itself, convey to the persons named on the account legal 23 ownership of the account and the deposits and proceeds of the account in such a 24 way that would preclude any of those persons from being prosecuted for a crime 25 involving the theft of any deposits or proceeds of the account, regardless of when 26 the intent to commit the crime arose.

27 Existing law imposes criminal penalties on a person who exploits or who 28 conspires to exploit an older person or vulnerable person. (NRS 200.5099, 29 200.50995) Existing law defines “exploitation” to mean, in general, any act taken 30 by a person who has the trust and confidence of an older person or a vulnerable
31 person or any use of the power of attorney or guardianship of an older person or a 32 vulnerable person to obtain control of or to convert the person’s money, assets or 33 property with the intention of permanently depriving the person of the ownership,
34 use, benefit or possession of his or her money, assets or property. (NRS 200.5092)
35 Sections 1 and 5 of this bill provide that the mere fact that an account of an older 36 person or a vulnerable person is held in joint tenancy does not, in and of itself, 37 convey to the persons named on the account legal ownership of the account and the 38 deposits and proceeds of the account in such a way that would preclude any of 39 those persons from committing exploitation involving the control or conversion of 40 any deposits or proceeds of the account, regardless of when the intent to commit 41 exploitation arose.

42 Section 2-4 and 6 of this bill make conforming changes to indicate the proper 43 placement of section 1 in the Nevada Revised Statutes.

28 performance or behavior.

29 Sec. 5. NRS 100.085 is hereby amended to read as follows:

30 100.085 1. When a deposit has been made in the name of the 31 depositor and one or more other persons, and in a form intended to 32 be paid or delivered to any one of them, or the survivor or survivors 33 of them, the deposit is the property of the persons as joint tenants. If 34 an account is intended to be held in joint tenancy, the account or 35 proceeds from the account are owned by the persons named, and 36 may be paid or delivered to any of them during the lifetime of all, or 37 to the survivor or survivors of them after the death of less than all of 38 the tenants, or the last of them to survive, and payment or delivery is 39 a valid and sufficient release and discharge of the depository.

40 2. The making of a deposit in the form of a joint tenancy vests
41 title to the deposit in the survivor or survivors.

42 3. When a deposit has been made in the name of the depositor
43 and one or more other persons, and in a form to be paid or delivered 44 to the survivor or survivors of them, but one or more of the other 45 persons is not authorized to withdraw from the deposit during the

1 life of the depositor or depositors, the person or persons so restricted 2 have no present interest in the deposit, but upon the death of the last 3 depositor entitled to withdraw, the deposit is presumed to belong to 4 the survivor or survivors. Unless written notice of a claim against 5 the deposit has been given by a survivor or a third person before 6 payment or delivery, payment or delivery to a survivor is a valid and 7 sufficient release and discharge of the depository.

8 4. For the purposes of this section, unless a depositor 9 specifically provides otherwise, the use by the depositor of any of 10 the following words or terms in designating the ownership of an 11 account indicates the intent of the depositor that the account be held 12 in joint tenancy:

- 13 (a) Joint;
- 14 (b) Joint account;
- 15 (c) Jointly held;
- 16 (d) Joint tenants;
- 17 (e) Joint tenancy; or
- 18 (f) Joint tenants with right of survivorship.

19 5. *The mere fact that an account is held in joint tenancy
20 pursuant to this section does not, in and of itself, convey to all 21 persons named on the account legal ownership of the account and 22 the deposits and proceeds of the account in a manner that would 23 preclude such a person from being prosecuted for a crime

25 facts and circumstances demonstrate that the crime has occurred,
26 regardless of whether the intent to commit the crime arose before,
27 during or after the creation of the account.

28 Sec. 6. NRS 162C.330 is hereby amended to read as follows:

29 162C.330 1. The provisions of this chapter must not be 30 construed to affect the requirement of any person to report the 31 abuse, neglect, exploitation, isolation or abandonment of an older 32 person or a vulnerable person as provided in NRS 200.5091 to 33 200.50995, inclusive H, and section 1 of this act.

34 2. As used in this section, the words and terms defined in NRS 35 200.5091 to 200.50995, inclusive, and section 1 of this act have the 36 meanings ascribed to them in those sections.
