Explanation

(Use Additional Sheets of Attachments, if required)

The agency has reviewed the bill, as written, and determined there is a fiscal impact to the Governor's Office of Energy. According to Section 27, the legislation would require the agency to commission a geothermal feasibility study (contract example attached). The study would include but not limited to: Mapping and resource assessments; analysis of the locations and quality of geothermal resources; evaluation of technological developments; review of the environmental, economic, regulatory and legal issues relating to expanding geothermal in the state.
