ASSEMBLYMEMBER JAUREGUI:

I rise today with the distinct honor of nominating Assemblymember Steve Yeager for Speaker of the Nevada State Assembly. Assemblymember Yeager has served as the Nevada Assembly representative for District 9 since 2016 and has demonstrated a strong commitment to his constituents and our state throughout his tenure.

We know him as Speaker, Assemblymember, and friend, but Assemblymember Yeager is also a born Midwesterner turned passionate Nevadan who embodies the spirit of the Silver State. He is a lover of music and a self-described foodie, who shares his culinary adventures with us through his Instagram—which I greatly appreciate.

As an adventurer, he loves exploring the beauty of our state's public lands and I have been lucky enough to join him on a few that have taken us to the depths of the Grand Canyon and to the heights of over 13,000 feet above sea level, including Nevada's own Boundary Peak. This blend of experience and passion help shape the leader we admire and respect, but at the heart of his leadership is his wife, the Honorable Bita Yeager, a remarkable woman in her own right. Together, they exemplify the best of public service and community dedication.

I am so proud to have the honor to nominate him on this day, to continue to serve as the 65th Speaker of the Nevada State Assembly.

Assemblymember Hafen seconded the motion.

Assemblymember Marzola moved that nominations be closed.

Assemblymember Jauregui requested that the following remarks be entered in the Journal.

ASSEMBLYMEMBER JAUREGUI:

Thank you, Mr. Speaker. And thank you once again for the honor and privilege of serving as your Majority Leader. This institution holds a special place in my heart and I am deeply committed to the values of collaboration and service that define our work here. I would also like to congratulate my colleague from Assembly District 36 on his ascension as Minority Leader. To my colleagues on both sides of the aisle, congratulations on your election and your dedication to public service, I am honored to work alongside each of you. And let us not forget to acknowledge the families and loved ones who support us in this endeavor. Their sacrifices often go unrecognized, but we could not do this important work without their unwavering encouragement and most of all, understanding. Please join me in recognizing their contributions.

In 2023, I stood before you and spoke about the importance of leaving partisanship on the campaign trail. Although we had heated moments, spirited debates, and some decisions we ultimately could not see eye to eye on, I am proud to say that we delivered on the promise by working together to address some of the toughest challenges facing our state. From passing a historic education budget—including much needed raises to teachers, to raises for state employees, and building a healthy rainy day fund. All of that work was done by is legislators, in this very building, and in just 120 days—well, 120-ish days, if we count special session, but who is counting, right?

This year, we must rededicate ourselves to that spirit of bipartisanship. The people of Nevada are counting on us to rise above division and focus on the issues that truly matter—issues like providing economic relief for hardworking families, improving access to affordable healthcare, affordable housing, and ensuring that every child in our state has the opportunity to succeed. We know the road ahead will not be easy. The challenges we face are complex and, at times, deeply personal. But I am confident that, together, we can forge solutions that reflect the best of who we are as Nevadans. As we embark on this legislative session, let us remember why we chose to serve. Together, we can continue to uphold the values that make this body, and our state, so extraordinary. Nevada is counting on us.

ASSEMBLYMEMBER HAFEN:

Good afternoon, everyone. It is a tremendous honor to be here, and I want to thank all of you for your commitment to serving the great people of Nevada. This state—our state—is truly a remarkable place. From the glittering lights of Las Vegas to the rugged beauty of rural Nevada, there is no place like it in the world. The people of Nevada are some of the hardest-working, patriotic individuals you will ever meet. They deserve leaders who put them first. Leaders who stand up for families, small businesses, for workers, and for the values that make this state so great. That is what this session is all about—fighting for the people who make Nevada the incredible state it is.

Now, let us talk about the challenges we face. Families are feeling it—inflation is hitting their wallets, businesses are navigating unnecessary red tape, and too many kids are not getting the quality education they deserve. But here is the good news: we have the opportunity, right now, to turn things around. We can unleash Nevada's full potential. We can do it by putting Nevada first. As representatives, we know what works—less government, more freedom, and lower taxes. We need to push policies that grow our economy, protect our communities, and defend our rights. To my friends on the other side of the aisle, I am ready to work with you. We may not always agree, but we share a common goal—to leave Nevada better than we found it. Let us commit to vigorous debate, respecting different perspectives, and a shared focus on results. We can get big things done if we put the people first.

To the people of Nevada, this is your Legislature, we are here because of you. We are here for you. Whether you are a small business owner in Henderson, a teacher from Reno, or a dairy farmer in Fallon, know this, we are going to work every single day to make Nevada a better place to live, work, and raise a family. This session, let us make history. Let us deliver results. Let us fight for the Nevada that we love and make sure it remains a shining example of what is possible when we embrace freedom, opportunity, and hard work.

Thank you, God bless you, and God bless the great state of Nevada.

MR. SPEAKER:

It is nice to be back here with all of you and a sincere thank you to each of you for voting for me to lead the Assembly as speaker of this session. I am truly grateful, and I am looking forward to the work ahead of us. I do want to thank my wife Bita—without your love, support, and encouragement I could not and would not serve in the Legislature, let alone be speaker. So, thank you and also a thank you to my mother, Sally who is watching online—so, hi mom—she is a constant support of mine, as well and I want to thank her for that. Congratulations to my counterpart in the senate, Senator Cannizzaro on, again, being elected Senate Majority Leader and congratulations to our own Assemblymember Hafen, as well as Senator Titus, on their new leadership roles. I look forward to working together to ensure that Nevada continues to prosper.

Now, this session, we have eleven new legislators. I am going to list them out and once I list you, I want you to stand up. If you could hold your applause until they are all standing up. They are Assemblymembers, Cole, Dalia, Edgeworth, Flanagan, Goulding, Hunt, Jackson, Karris, Moore, Nadeem, and Roth. Please give them a round of applause for stepping up to serve. Congratulations and welcome—you may be seated. And to the incumbents who decided to run again: what in the world were you thinking? But in all seriousness, thank you for running for reelection and coming back to the Legislature. Your experience will be invaluable in ensuring that we are successful this session. Some advice to our new legislators and our incumbents: drink more water, exercise whenever you can, take the stairs, try to get a good night's sleep, get to know people, ask a lot of questions, have fun every now and again, and be kind to one another. You just never know what another person is going through and there is nothing as sweet as the sound of Amazing Grace. So liberally give grace to others in this building, at all times.

Now, if we are being honest, running a campaign and serving in the Legislature is a sacrifice. It certainly takes a toll on all of us, but it also takes a toll on your family and your loved ones. They too make sacrifices so that you can campaign, win your seat, and serve. Now, you are all going to have a chance to introduce your guests later, but for now, legislators, I would like you to give a round of applause to all who supported you up to this moment and who will continue to support you over the course of this session. And a sincere thank you to everyone who braved challenging weather as it always is before the beginning of session to be here. You know, our respective campaigns are mercifully behind us and that is where we should leave them—in the rearview mirror. Because we must now govern, and Nevadans of all political stripes are counting on us to govern to the best of our ability. They do not want to be part of petty political squabbles. They want to be the beneficiaries of a government that works for them. That requires us to communicate with one another and to collaborate whenever possible.

To the members, I want you each to take a look at the chair that you are sitting on, although you are one person sitting on that chair, the chair itself represents approximately 74,000 Nevadans. And by way of reminder, you are here to represent all 74,000 of them to the best of your ability, even the ones who did not vote for you, even the ones who will never vote for you because all are your constituents, and all are Nevadans. Now, of the three branches of state government we, the Legislative Branch, are the closest to the people—in whom the real power is vested. So, let us ensure that we are protectors of the Legislature from outside influences and those who would like to weaken us so that we cannot do good work for the people. We are far weaker than our other two branches of government because of our part time status, there is no reason to give what little authority we have away. Now, we have the benefit of living in the best system of government the world has ever known, representative democracy, but there is no guarantee that it survives. We must fiercely protect it at all times or risk losing it forever. Speaking of that, I would like to ask every veteran or active military member in this chamber to stand up and be recognized for your commitment to protecting this great nation of ours, whatever the cost. We thank you for your service, we appreciate you, and we will support you in any way we can.

Now, America continues to be the envy of the world and everybody's eyes light up when you tell them, like I am, that I am from Las Vegas. Whether you are overseas or right here in the United States, there is something special about the American spirit and there is something special about the Southwest, and there is certainly something special about Nevada. This is a place where things get done. This is a place where we do not take no for an answer. There is simply no place I would rather call home. Indeed, we live in an amazing state.

You know, I was on the Las Vegas Strip sitting at a bar during the recent consumer electronics show—drinking an old fashioned made with Frey Ranch bourbon, the best bourbon in the world. I was amazed at the number of languages I heard being spoken. At that moment, Las Vegas was as multicultural as any place in the world. People love to visit here and tourism continues to play an outsized role in our economy and in our collective future. But Nevada cannot just be a place that is welcoming for visitors. It must be a place where we, the residents, can prosper. Where the American dream and home ownership is still within our grasp. And that vision must continue to be our north star, as it was in the last legislative session. As America approaches its 250th anniversary, we are distinctly aware that America itself was a startup nation. Everything was new and risky. Yet we came out of those challenges as the strongest and most powerful nation on earth. To help initiate a renewal of ingenuity and creativity that made America the envy of the world—right here in Nevada—last legislative session, we established the first-in-the-nation, Office of Entrepreneurship, to make it easier for Nevadans to start their own businesses and realize their own American dream. Because every Nevadan should have the right to start their own business and approve the community they live in.

The work we did in the last legislative session made a real difference in the lives of Nevadans and that started with our investment in public education and educators. It was a long time coming to get our public schools back on track and there is still work to do. You all know that. But every journey starts with a single step, or in our case, a giant leap. We did not stop there, however, we passed legislation to alleviate the burdens on everyday Nevada families. Such as, lowering the price of prescription drugs, making housing more affordable, while ensuring renters have the most basic of protections. Some of that legislation was vetoed, but we will be back at it. Always mindful of our North Star: making life more affordable for those whom we serve. And to that end, we will be fast tracking legislation to lower food prices for Nevadans, specifically eggs. And you can expect to see action on this in the first two weeks of the legislative session. We are not here to repeat political talking points. We are here to get things done.

At this moment, there are a number of challenges that we are facing—sometimes they can seem insurmountable. We are in a housing crisis, homes are out of reach, we do not have enough medical providers, and health care is too expensive. Our economy continues to suffer from a lack of diversification—subjecting us to the ebbs and flows of the global economy. Inflation is too damn high. Things cost too damn much. Yes, these challenges can seem insurmountable, but that must not deter us from trying our level best to find solutions to these challenges because we are not here simply to manage the trains. We are here to identify problems that outrage us, then to solve them together.

It reminds me of that scene and quote from the Lord of the Rings between Frodo, the hobbit, and Gandalf, the wizard. If you have not seen it, you got to watch it. Frodo is lamenting about the harrowing trials that he and the entire world are facing and he says, "I wish it need not have happened in my time." "So do I," said Gandalf, "and so do all who live to see such times. But that is not for them to decide. All we have to decide is what we do with the time that is given us."

My sincere hope is that all of you have come to this building with a servant's heart because this job at its core is about the people, not about anybody's political future ambitions or how many likes some post gets on social media. The good news is that if you did not come here with that attitude, you can always change. Every day is an opportunity to start a new, to do things differently, to be better, to be your best. What sets us as human beings apart from other living beings, is that we are conscious of our place in this world. We comprehend the historical context of the time in which we are living. And we understand what has come before. We realize that our actions affect people, either for good or for bad. And we have an innate sense of what is right and what is wrong. Now, that does not mean life is easy. Sometimes it is very, very hard indeed. But once you realize that we are all connected and all have a vested interest in making our world a better place, there is nothing, nothing we cannot accomplish as long as we set out to accomplish it together. And really, is that not what drives us all—to make the world a better place? So, my challenge to you, the elected members of the 83rd session of the Nevada Legislature, is indeed the same challenge I issued last legislative session. Open your eyes and see Nevada as it is today, as it is right now in this very moment, on February 3rd, 2025, with all of the successes and all of its challenges. But also have the vision to see Nevada as you wish it to be long after you leave legislative service. Do not fear the future because we are not here merely to endure it, we are here to shape it—and for the better. We must work together to ensure that all Nevadans have a right to self-determination, to chart their own path forward. That indeed was the promise of America. No more kings, no more dictators, but a right of the people who are governed to have a say in their government and their future. And we must never forget that the federal government is nothing more than a collection of these 50 United States, Nevada and her 49 sister states. So, when we can work with the federal government for the benefit of Nevadans, we will. And when we cannot, we will push back and stand up for all Nevadans. That should be a bipartisan effort. Because when it comes to the wellbeing of Nevadans, there are no political parties, there are only shared priorities. Colleagues, our work starts now. So let us get to work. God bless all of you and God bless the great state of Nevada.

- 4. The Legislative Code of Ethical Standards does not create any private right of action or enforceable legal rights in any person.

  - (e) Any other agency, body, office, organization or unit of the Legislative Branch.

Rule No. 37. Ethical Standards; Prohibited Conduct.

- 2. If the complaint alleges an ethical breach by or against a Legislator or the ethical breach otherwise involves a particular Legislator, the complaint must be filed with the Legislator's House, even if the complaint also alleges an ethical breach by or against a member of legislative staff or a lobbyist.
- Rule No. 39. Authority of Senate and Assembly to Adopt Ethical Standards, Require Training and Prohibit and Sanction Ethical Breaches.
  - 1. The Senate and Assembly hereby find and declare that:
- (a) Section 6 of Article 4 of the Nevada Constitution invests each House with plenary and exclusive constitutional powers to govern, control and regulate its membership and its internal organization, affairs and management, expressly providing that: "Each House shall judge of the qualifications, elections and returns of its own members, choose its own officers (except the President of the Senate), determine the rules of its proceedings and may punish its members for disorderly conduct, and with the concurrence of two thirds of all the members elected, expel a member." (Heller v. Legislature, 120 Nev. 456 (2004); Commission on Ethics v. Hardy, 125 Nev. 285 (2009); Mason's Manual of Legislative Procedure §§ 2-3 and 560-564 (2010) (Mason's Manual))
- (b) Section 7 of Article 4 of the Nevada Constitution invests each House with plenary and exclusive constitutional powers to govern, control and regulate any person who is not a member but who is guilty of disrespect to the House by disorderly or contemptuous behavior in its presence, and each House also has inherent powers, according to the common parliamentary law, to prohibit and sanction all offensive behavior committed against it by any person who is not a member. (Mason's Manual §§ 805-806; Luther S. Cushing, Elements of the Law & Practice of Legislative Assemblies §§ 690-695 (1856) (Cushing's Legislative Assemblies))
- (c) In addition to its other powers, each House possesses certain inherent powers of institutional self-protection and self-preservation to govern, control and regulate its membership and its internal organization, affairs and management. (In re Chapman, 166 U.S. 661, 668 (1897); Mason's Manual § 2; Cushing's Legislative Assemblies § 533)
- (d) The inherent powers of each House are considered "so essential to the authority of a legislative assembly, that it cannot well exist without them; and they are consequently entitled to be regarded as belonging to every such assembly as a necessary incident." (Cushing's Legislative Assemblies § 533)
- (e) The inherent powers of each House authorize it to take all necessary and proper institutional actions that are "recognized by the common parliamentary law." (Cushing's Legislative Assemblies § 684)
- (f) Thus, it is well established that each House is "vested with all the powers and privileges which are necessary and incidental to a free and unobstructed exercise of its appropriate functions. These powers and privileges are derived not from the Constitution; on the contrary, they arise from the very creation of a legislative body, and are founded upon the principle of self-preservation." (Ex parte McCarthy, 29 Cal. 395, 403 (1866))
- 2. The Senate and Assembly hereby exercise their constitutional and inherent powers and privileges and adopt the Legislative Code of Ethical Standards in the Joint Standing Rules to:
- (a) Establish ethical standards to regulate the behavior and conduct of persons who participate in the legislative process; and
  - (b) Prohibit and sanction ethical breaches.

3. The Majority Leader of the Senate and the Speaker of the Assembly, respectively, may require Legislators to attend training relating to the ethical standards required, and the behaviors prohibited, by the Legislative Code of Ethical Standards and sanction a Legislator for failure to attend such a training.

CONTINUATION OF RULES

Rule No. 40. Continuation of Joint Standing Rules During the Interim Between Regular Sessions.

The Joint Standing Rules set forth herein shall remain in full force and effect throughout the interim between regular sessions of the Legislature and until new Joint Standing Rules of the Senate and Assembly are adopted as part of the organization of a newly-constituted Legislature at the commencement of a session, unless a conflict exists with a rule adopted by the Senate and Assembly for a special session occurring between regular sessions.

And be it further

RESOLVED, That this resolution becomes effective upon adoption, except that any persons who were issued press identification badges for the 83rd Session of the Legislature before February 3, 2025, and whose names are read or entered into the Journals of the Senate and Assembly as accredited press representatives on that date shall be deemed to be accredited members of a bona fide news medium for the purposes of Joint Standing Rule No. 25.

Assemblymember Jauregui moved the adoption of the resolution. Remarks by Assemblymembers Jauregui and Gallant.

ASSEMBLYMEMBER JAUREGUI:

This resolution sets out the Joint Standing Rules of the Senate and Assembly for the 83rd Session of the Nevada Legislature. (1) The Joint Standing Rules are amended throughout to use the term "Assemblymember" rather than "Assemblyman" or "Assemblywoman" for members of the Assembly. (2) Rule 4 is amended to eliminate the requirement that the presiding officer of each house announce in open session their intention to sign enrolled bills and joint resolutions before signing such bills and resolutions. (3) A new Rule 25 is added to clarify the press accreditation process for the Legislature and ensure the process is consistent with current case law. (4) Rule 39 is amended to authorize the Speaker and the Majority Leader to require Legislators to attend training relating to the Legislative Code of Ethical Standards.

ASSEMBLYMEMBER GALLANT:

I would like to address the Legislature with our concerns of being called "Assemblymember." We fought very hard for the title of Assemblywoman back in the nineties, as well as being celebrated for having the first female majority Legislature, and we continue to. I will be voting "no" on these resolutions for that reason.

Resolution adopted and ordered immediately transmitted to the Senate.

By the Committee on Legislative Operations and Elections:

Assembly Concurrent Resolution No. 2—Authorizing additional reimbursement for travel in certain circumstances.

RESOLVED. That the amount of any such claim that is approved be verified, processed and paid in the same manner as claims pursuant to NRS 218A.645; and be it further

RESOLVED, That this resolution becomes effective upon adoption.

Assemblymember Jauregui moved the adoption of the resolution. Remarks by Assemblymember Jauregui.

- 2. A petition convening the Assembly pursuant to this Rule must specify the matter that will be considered or acted on by the Assembly, indicate a date for the Assembly to convene and be transmitted to the Chief Clerk of the Assembly. - (a) The Nevada Constitution invests each House of the Legislature with certain plenary and exclusive constitutional powers which may be exercised only by that House and which cannot be usurped, infringed or impaired by the other House or by any other branch of Nevada's State Government. (Heller v. Legislature, 120 Nev. 456 (2004); Commission on Ethics v. Hardy, 125 Nev. 285 (2009); Mason's Manual of Legislative Procedure §§ 2-3 & 560-564 (2010) (Mason's Manual))

- (d) The inherent powers of each House are considered "so essential to the authority of a legislative assembly, that it cannot well exist without them; and they are consequently entitled to be regarded as belonging to every such assembly as a necessary incident." (Cushing's Legislative Assemblies § 533)
- (e) The inherent powers of each House authorize it to take all necessary and proper institutional actions that are "recognized by the common parliamentary law." (Cushing's Legislative Assemblies § 684)

All proceedings held by the Committee to consider the character, alleged misconduct, professional competence or physical or mental health of any person on matters of ethics or conflicts of interest and all materials related to those proceedings are confidential, unless the person who is the subject of the proceedings requests a public hearing or discloses the content of the proceedings or materials.
- 9. An individual may file a complaint which alleges a breach of ethics or a conflict of interest, including, without limitation, an alleged breach of the Legislative Code of Ethical Standards in the Joint Standing Rules. If the alleged breach of ethics or conflict of interest involves the conduct of more than one person, separate complaints must be filed regarding each person. A complaint must be:
  - (a) Made in writing on a form provided by the Legislative Counsel;
- (b) Signed and verified under penalty of perjury by the individual making the allegation; and
- (c) Filed with the Legislative Counsel who shall review the complaint and any other relevant information and consult with the Chair of the Committee or, if the Chair is the subject of the complaint, with the Vice Chair, to evaluate whether the Committee has jurisdiction and whether an investigation is warranted in the matter. If it is determined that the Committee:
- (1) Does not have jurisdiction or that an investigation is not warranted in the matter, the Legislative Counsel shall send written notice of the determination to the individual who filed the complaint.
- (2) Has jurisdiction and an investigation is warranted in the matter, the Legislative Counsel shall send written notice of the determination and a copy of the complaint to the person who is the subject of the complaint.
- 10. Each Legislator is subject, at all times, to the Legislative Code of Ethical Standards in the Joint Standing Rules and, in addition, must determine whether he or she has a conflict of interest upon any matter in question before the Legislator. In determining whether the Legislator has such a conflict of interest, the Legislator should consider whether the independence of judgment of a reasonable person in his or her situation upon the matter in question would be materially affected by the Legislator's:
  - (a) Acceptance of a gift or loan;
  - (b) Private economic interest; or
  - (c) Commitment to a member of his or her household or immediate family.
- → In interpreting and applying the provisions of this subsection, it must be presumed that the independence of judgment of a reasonable person in the Legislator's situation would not be materially affected by the Legislator's private economic interest or the Legislator's commitment to a member of his or her household or immediate family where the resulting benefit or detriment accruing to the Legislator, or if the Legislator has a commitment to a member of his or her household or immediate family, accruing to those other persons, is not greater than that accruing to any other member of the general business, profession, occupation or group that is affected by the matter.
- 11. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 12, if a Legislator knows he or she has a conflict of interest pursuant to subsection 10, the Legislator shall make a general disclosure of the conflict of interest on the record in a meeting of a committee or on the floor of the Assembly, as applicable. Such a disclosure must be entered:
- (a) If the Legislator makes the disclosure in a meeting of a committee, in the minutes for that meeting.
  - (b) If the Legislator makes the disclosure on the floor of the Assembly, in the Journal.
- 12. If, on one or more prior occasions during the current session of the Legislature, a Legislator has made a general disclosure of a conflict of interest on the record in a meeting of a committee or on the floor of the Assembly, the Legislator is not required to make that general disclosure at length again regarding the same conflict of interest if, when the matter in question arises on subsequent occasions, the Legislator makes a reference on the record to the previous disclosure.
- 13. In determining whether to abstain from voting upon, advocating or opposing a matter concerning which a Legislator has a conflict of interest pursuant to subsection 10, the Legislator should consider whether:

- (a) The conflict impedes his or her independence of judgment; and
- (b) His or her interest is greater than the interests of an entire class of persons similarly situated.
- 14. The provisions of this Rule do not under any circumstances and regardless of any conflict of interest:
  - (a) Prohibit a Legislator from requesting or introducing a legislative measure; or
- (b) Require a Legislator to take any particular action before or while requesting or introducing a legislative measure.
- 15. If a Legislator who is a member of a committee declares on the record when a vote is to be taken by the committee that he or she will abstain from voting because of the requirements of this Rule, the necessary quorum to act upon and the number of votes necessary to act upon the matter is reduced as though the Legislator abstaining were not a member of the committee.
- 16. The standards and procedures set forth in this Rule which govern whether and to what extent a member of the Assembly has a conflict of interest, should disclose a conflict of interest or should abstain from voting upon, advocating or opposing a matter concerning which the member has a conflict of interest pursuant to subsection 10:
- (a) Are exclusive and are the only standards and procedures that apply to members of the Assembly with regard to such matters; and
- (b) Supersede and preempt all other standards and procedures with regard to such matters, ⇒ except that this subsection does not exempt any members of the Assembly from the Legislative Code of Ethical Standards in the Joint Standing Rules.
- 17. For purposes of this Rule, "immediate family" means a person who is related to the Legislator by blood, adoption or marriage within the first degree of consanguinity or affinity.

Rule No. 122. Reserved.

Rule No. 123. Reserved.

Rule No. 124. Reserved.

Rule No. 125. Reserved.

Rule No. 126. Authorized Use of Remote-Technology Systems in Exceptional Circumstances.

- 1. As used in this Rule, "remote-technology system" means any system or other means of communication that is:
- (a) Approved by the Speaker and uses any electronic, digital or other similar technology to enable a member of the Assembly from a remote location to attend, participate, vote and take any other action in any proceedings of the Assembly or the Committee of the Whole even though the member is not physically present within the Assembly Chambers or at a meeting of the Committee of the Whole.
- (b) Approved by the chair of a committee, other than the Committee of the Whole, and uses any electronic, digital or other similar technology to enable a member of the Assembly from a remote location to attend, participate, vote and take any other action in any proceedings of the committee even though the member is not physically present at a meeting of the committee.
  - 2. Upon request by a member of the Assembly:

- (a) The Speaker may authorize the member to use a remote-technology system to attend, participate, vote and take any other action in any proceedings of the Assembly or the Committee of the Whole if the Speaker determines that exceptional circumstances warrant such use by the member. If the Speaker grants such authorization, it must be entered in the Journal of the Assembly.
- (b) The chair of a committee, other than the Committee of the Whole, with the approval of the Speaker, may authorize the member to use a remote-technology system to attend, participate, vote and take any other action in any proceedings of the committee if the chair and the Speaker determine that exceptional circumstances warrant such use by the member. If the chair grants such authorization, it must be entered in the records of the committee.
- 3. If a member of the Assembly uses a remote-technology system to attend, participate, vote and take any other action in any proceedings pursuant to this Rule, the member shall be deemed to be present and in attendance at the proceedings for all purposes.
  - 4. For the purposes of voting in proceedings of:
- (a) The Assembly or the Committee of the Whole, the Chief Clerk of the Assembly, or an authorized assistant, shall call the roll of each member who is authorized to use a remote-technology system for the proceedings and, in accordance with the procedures of the Assembly, cause the member's vote to be entered into the record for the purposes of the Journal of the Assembly or the records of the Committee of the Whole, as applicable.
- (b) A committee, other than the Committee of the Whole, the committee secretary shall call the roll of each member who is authorized to use a remote-technology system for the proceedings and, in accordance with the procedures of the committee, cause the member's vote to be entered into the record for the purposes of the records of the committee.
- 5. Except as otherwise provided in subsection 7 of Assembly Standing Rule No. 55, this Rule supersedes, takes precedence and controls over any other rule, provision or principle of law to the extent of any conflict with this Rule.
  - 6. The Assembly hereby finds and declares that:
- (a) The Nevada Constitution invests each House of the Legislature with certain plenary and exclusive constitutional powers which may be exercised only by that House and which cannot be usurped, infringed or impaired by the other House or by any other branch of Nevada's State Government. (Heller v. Legislature, 120 Nev. 456 (2004); Commission on Ethics v. Hardy, 125 Nev. 285 (2009); Mason's Manual of Legislative Procedure §§ 2-3 & 560-564 (2010) (Mason's Manual))
- (b) Section 6 of Article 4 of the Nevada Constitution invests each House with plenary and exclusive constitutional powers to determine the rules of its proceedings and to govern, control and regulate its membership and its internal organization, affairs and management, expressly providing that: "Each House shall judge of the qualifications, elections and returns of its own members, choose its own officers (except the President of the Senate), determine the rules of its proceedings and may punish its members for disorderly conduct, and with the concurrence of two thirds of all the members elected, expel a member."
- (c) In addition to its plenary and exclusive constitutional powers, each House possesses certain inherent powers of institutional self-protection and self-preservation to govern, control and regulate its membership and its internal organization, affairs and management. (In re Chapman, 166 U.S. 661, 668 (1897); Mason's Manual § 2; Luther S. Cushing, Elements of the Law & Practice of Legislative Assemblies § 533 (1856) (Cushing's Legislative Assemblies))
- (d) The inherent powers of each House are considered "so essential to the authority of a legislative assembly, that it cannot well exist without them; and they are consequently entitled to be regarded as belonging to every such assembly as a necessary incident." (Cushing's Legislative Assemblies § 533)
- (e) The inherent powers of each House authorize it to take all necessary and proper institutional actions that are "recognized by the common parliamentary law." (Cushing's Legislative Assemblies § 684)
- (f) Thus, it is well established that each House is "vested with all the powers and privileges which are necessary and incidental to a free and unobstructed exercise of its appropriate functions. These powers and privileges are derived not from the Constitution; on the contrary, they arise from the very creation of a legislative body, and are founded upon the principle of self-preservation." (Ex parte McCarthy, 29 Cal. 395, 403 (1866))

- (g) Under the Nevada Constitution, there are no constitutional provisions establishing a particular method for determining whether a member of either House is present at legislative proceedings.
- (h) The United States Supreme Court has held that when there are no constitutional provisions establishing a particular method for determining whether a member of a legislative house is present at legislative proceedings, "it is therefore within the competency of the house to prescribe any method which shall be reasonably certain to ascertain the fact." (United States v. Ballin, 144 U.S. 1, 6 (1892))
- (i) The United States Supreme Court has also held that when a legislative house adopts a rule establishing a reasonable method for determining whether a member is present at legislative proceedings, that rule must be given great deference by the courts because:

Neither do the advantages or disadvantages, the wisdom or folly, of such a rule present any matters for judicial consideration. With the courts the question is only one of power. The constitution empowers each house to determine its rules of proceedings. It may not by its rules ignore constitutional restraints or violate fundamental rights, and there should be a reasonable relation between the mode or method of proceeding established by the rule and the result which is sought to be attained. But within these limitations all matters of method are open to the determination of the house, and it is no impeachment of the rule to say that some other way would be better, more accurate, or even more just. It is no objection to the validity of a rule that a different one has been prescribed and in force for a length of time. The power to make rules is not one which once exercised is exhausted. It is a continuous power, always subject to be exercised by the house, and, within the limitations suggested, absolute and beyond the challenge of any other body or tribunal.

(United States v. Ballin, 144 U.S. 1, 5 (1892))

- 7. The Assembly hereby exercises its constitutional and inherent powers and privileges and adopts this Rule to:
- (a) Govern, control and regulate its membership and its internal organization, affairs and management;
  - (b) Ensure its institutional self-protection and self-preservation; and
- (c) Establish a reasonable method for determining whether a member of the Assembly is present at legislative proceedings during exceptional circumstances.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

OFFICE OF THE GOVERNOR

FEBRUARY 3, 2025

THE HONORABLE NICOLE CANNIZZARO, MAJORITY LEADER, NEVADA STATE SENATE, THE HONORABLE STEVE YEAGER, SPEAKER, NEVADA STATE ASSEMBLY, 401 S. Carson Street, Carson City, Nevada 89701

DEAR MAJORITY LEADER CANNIZZARO AND SPEAKER YEAGER:

Please find enclosed the text of my State of the State address to the 83rd Session of the Nevada Legislature. I was honored to join you both alongside your fellow legislators, Supreme Court justices, constitutional officers, and honored guests for this important evening for all Nevadans. I was proud to outline my plans to move Nevada forward, and deliver on our commitment to support, create opportunities for and relieve the burden on working families across our great State.

Nevada is entering a crucial phase, confronting challenges that demand serious comprehensive and forward thinking solutions. From housing affordability and healthcare access, to educational outcomes, public safety, and economic policy. To address these critical needs, I am introducing five priority pieces of legislation that reflect my administration's vision for Nevada's future. Each of these proposals represents a comprehensive and strategic approach to addressing the challenges we face and are designed to deliver tangible results, improve government efficiency, and provide financial relief to taxpayers.

As I said in my State of the State address, I remain committed to working with you and I know we all feel a profound and abiding sense of duty and honor to the people we serve. I appreciate your thoughtful consideration and deliberation over the coming months. My staff and I stand ready to work with you this Session to find solutions and improve the quality of life for all Nevadans.

Sincerely, JOE LOMBARDO Governor

MOTIONS, RESOLUTIONS AND NOTICES

Assemblymember Jauregui moved that the Governor's State of the State Address as presented to the Legislative Commission's Special Committee to Receive the Governor's State of the State Address of January 15, 2025, be entered into the Journal.

GOVERNOR JOE LOMBARDO:

Welcome everybody: Speaker Yeager, Majority Leader Cannizzaro, Lieutenant Governor Anthony, members of the Senate and Assembly, honorable Justices of the Supreme Court, welcome; constitutional officers, welcome, welcome; distinguished guests, my fellow Nevadans, good evening.

I want to acknowledge that all of us have friends and family who have been affected by the devastating wildfires in southern California. Our hearts go out to those who are dealing with the fire's aftermath, and I ask that we all keep the good people of Los Angeles and the first responders who are working to keep them safe, in our thoughts and prayers.

I appear before you two weeks into the new year and two weeks away from the start of a new legislative session. I know all of you feel a profound and abiding sense of duty and honor to serve the people. Every day we are entrusted with the distinct privilege of working for the citizens of this great state.

It is no secret that in the coming months we will not always see eye to eye on everything, and that is ok. What I do know, however, is that there will be absolutely no disagreement among us on two essential mandates, fulfilling the people's trust and giving them nothing less than our very best. Tonight, let us take a look at where our state is headed. I will highlight my executive budget, summarize the state of our state, and outline where I believe our state's resources should be prioritized. Beforehand, I want to talk about who we are and where we have been.

One hundred years ago, almost to the day, Nevada Governor James Scrugham, wrote to the Nevada Legislature in his State of the State message that economic progress should not be restrained "by burdensome legislation, excessive taxation, or unnecessary interferences." In 1925, Nevada's population was 85,000; today, we are over 3.2 million. Governor Scrugham was spot on 100 years ago, and I would bet what he wrote in 1925 will be true 100 years from now. It is that kind of disciplined leadership that has enabled Nevadans to march through decades of unexpected downturns and rise again and again with a renewed spirit of hope and optimism.

I also believe that by embracing the Nevada Way, a concept that as Nevadans, if we believe in ourselves sufficiently enough and trust one another to overcome adversity no matter the order of magnitude, we shall never fail.

We emerged from a brutal pandemic stronger and healthier; we instituted thoughtful changes in the way we operate; and we exercised our vested authority to substantially limit the growth of government. It is not about doing less; it is about doing better.

To give you a sense of what I am talking about, when I took over as Governor, the IT [Information Technology] project to replace our HR [Human Resources] and financial operations systems had spent more than $100 million but was no closer to implementation than when it started in 2017. I am proud to announce that the first phase of the financial system went live on January 2, and now Nevada is paying its bills. The HR system is on track to be fully implemented this summer on time and within budget. We made clear that our vision for Nevada's future is bracketed by the twin principles of physical discipline and decisive leadership. To put it simply, we are getting stuff done.

Without hesitation, I can confidently say after 24 months in office, we are running government, government is not running us. Meaning, in my administration results are more important than process. I strongly agree with President Reagan's idea, "Government can and must provide opportunity, not smother it;" it must "foster productivity, not stifle it." In two years, we have reduced an employee vacancy rate from 25 percent to half of that. Morale and working conditions have improved dramatically. State employee productivity is significantly higher, employees are back in the office, and we are back in business. During that same period, we welcomed a record number of visitors to the Silver State, and we are experiencing robust job creation. Nearly 1.6 million Nevadans are working, marking the highest number in our state's 160-year history. This remarkable achievement reflects the resilience and determination of our citizens and the progress we made in building an economy that delivers results. But in an unusual twist, Nevada's unemployment rate stands at 5.7 percent; a number that reminds us there is still a lot of work to be done. My administration is committed to ensuring that every Nevadan, no matter their circumstances, has access to meaningful opportunities to contribute and participate in our state's success.

In my inaugural address, I spoke about unleashing the roar of Nevada's economy, and we are well on our way. I attribute it to the fact that the world wants to share in our rich entertainment and sporting event experiences. At the same time, business leaders around the globe have heard and answered the call that Nevada is open for business. These are good signs, no doubt, but as leaders, it is our responsibility to be on the lookout for early warning signs of change. While we can look forward with cautious optimism that our economy is stable, we must stay alert to sudden economic turns. To that end, my budget includes a record high reserve in the Rainy Day Fund of $1.3 billion. Just imagine, 10 years ago, the Rainy Day Fund had a balance of $330 million. Four years ago, due to the pandemic, it was drained to zero. We made smart fiscal decisions, and we instituted prudent policies to protect ourselves. We should pause and note, those of us who were here two years ago can be gratified knowing we are responsible for being responsible. It is safe to say, we Nevadans are no strangers to hardship. It is the nature of our story, so we must act accordingly.

Let me provide you with another example we have accomplished since taking office, this time in education—remember I said we have accomplished. Last session, we added over $2 billion in new funding for Nevada students and schools—the largest education investment in our state's history. Hand in hand with that historic achievement, we worked last session to make our schools safer and more accessible to Nevada families in all 17 counties. We heard the urgent voices of students, parents, and teachers that said the safety of our schools was under threat. They asked us to step up to reempower teachers and to give students the reinforcement they need to grow academically while also learning the value of respect and responsibility. I was proud to collaborate with the Legislature last session to pass two bills that reestablish control and accountability in our schools. Together, we also made major new commitments to state-funded pre-K through building out additional capacity for our youngest learners. We created transportation options for students who choose to attend charter schools, and we supported our teacher workforce by creating new professional pathways and scholarships. That level of cooperation, the willingness to come together and find common ground, is what I hope for in this session as we work to solve the needs of our students, parents, and educators. I will share more in a few moments of what we propose to do this session to improve public education.

First, I am proud to present you a $12.7 billion executive budget that meets the commitments we made last session on pay raises for public employees and teachers and I am pleased to announce tonight, my budget will make teacher pay raises permanent. I am also announcing that I will be extending pay raises to all charter school teachers.

Additionally, my budget introduces important changes in how we conduct state business. It bolsters our purchasing power to save taxpayer dollars, and it is a budget that is transparent in addressing inescapable realities like program roll ups amid the growing scarcity of federal dollars. Let us face it, as we get ready for the 120-day session, we all know working families need to catch a break. I can assure you that every single one of my budget decisions was focused on delivering on that commitment. Most important, this is a budget that is centered and balanced on the promise of not raising taxes on our hardworking Nevada families.

My fellow Nevadans, I stand before you to tell you that the state of our state is steadily improving. We are certainly headed in the right direction and the outlook is positive; but for it to remain sustainable, we must, we must, sharpen our discipline and focus. Prices are higher because of the compounding effects of inflation and the cost of living continues to weigh on our families. Housing costs are stretching budgets thin, health care costs remain a heavy burden, and access to health care is too limited for too many. With these concerns in mind, I will share something with you. Last month, I declined to include millions of dollars in state agency requests for more funding in this budget. Many of the proposed program enhancements were thoughtful, but now is exactly the wrong time to strap more burden on the backs of hardworking Nevada families. So, I held the line.

Considering the added financial pressures Nevada families are feeling, I instructed my cabinet to lock in the resolve to say no to more spending; and yes, to more accountability and resourcefulness. Among my top budget priorities—I want to mention one in particular, it is one I expect will be met with bipartisan support—I am announcing that we will be splitting up the Department of Health and Human Services. I will stand up to Nevada Health Authority, which will be assigned the critical responsibilities of managing Medicaid, the Health Exchange, employee benefits, mental health funding, and other services. This new authority will capitalize on the broad and strong purchasing power of the State when it comes to health insurance. Leveraging that power enables us to cut a better deal for taxpayers while offering better insurance options for Medicaid members; those Nevadans enrolled in the exchange; and state employees. To lead this new agency, I am proud to announce, I have asked one of Nevada's hardest working and most effective public employees to take on this assignment. Please join me in recognizing Stacie Weeks. Making this significant adjustment in the way we address health care is an essential step in helping all Nevadans, and I urge your support for this critical shift in health care management.

Nevada is entering a crucial phase, confronting challenges that demand serious comprehensive and forward-thinking solutions, from housing affordability and health care, access to educational outcomes, public safety, and economic policy. To address these critical needs, I am introducing five priority pieces of legislation that reflect my administration's vision for Nevada's future. Each of these proposals represents a comprehensive and strategic approach to addressing the challenges we face, designed to deliver tangible results, improve government efficiency, and provide financial relief to taxpayers. I would ask that before some of you say no, work with me. Collaborate with my agency heads, ask questions, give input, offer alternatives, and set aside partisan politics. The stubborn reality is that if we do nothing, these challenges only become more difficult.

Let me say this plainly, Donna and I are grandparents, and we feel firsthand the struggle young families are having with housing costs. We know too many Nevadans are seriously questioning if they will ever have the chance to own a home. Everyone watching and listening tonight has been affected by this crisis. No one is untouched. Finding sensible solutions requires leadership, partnership, and bipartisanship. I know we can do this if we set our minds to it.

The root cause of our crisis is that Nevada families and builders are being held back by the federal government's reluctance to release the land we need for housing. With over 80 percent of our state under federal control, bureaucratic delays have driven up costs and shut down opportunities. My administration has fought hard to change that, pushing Washington to make land available for the people who need it most. I have spoken with President Trump on multiple occasions to let him know how important it is that more federal land be released so we can relieve the mounting pressure on our housing inventory. I have great confidence that President Trump understands and will help. I have also been in constant contact with our congressional delegation, who are working closely with us to cut through the D.C. [District of Columbia] bureaucratic red tape, but while we press for federal action—we are not waiting. We bear an important responsibility to protect the natural splendor of Nevada while solving our housing crisis. That means supporting what works and shedding outdated practices that slow progress or drive up costs. By streamlining permits, prioritizing the use of every buildable acre of land for Nevadans—not out of state investors looking to cash in—we are creating a route for housing attainability for all. The Nevada Attainable Housing Act is our action plan to get this done. This comprehensive legislation tackles housing needs on multiple fronts: fostering innovation, incentivizing development, and creating public-private partnerships. The bill prioritizes state funding that will support $1 billion in new attainable housing units across Nevada. This investment empowers Nevada builders to create homes for the people who live and work here: helping families secure stable housing; creating pathways to homeownership for essential workers like teachers, nurses, and first responders; and supporting transitional housing for those starting over by focusing on solutions that expand housing supply through collaboration, not heavy-handed mandates that choke growth. This plan is about partnerships—builders, governments, and communities working together to create housing by Nevadans, for Nevadans.

We also need to continue the great work our fire agencies and stakeholders are doing to protect us from the growing risk of wildfires. If fires do occur, despite our best efforts, we need to ensure our homeowners and residents can have adequate insurance in place to help recover from loss and to stay in their homes. We know a house is not just four walls and a roof; it is the foundation for a better life. Whether you are renting, saving for your first home, or starting over, know this: we see you, we hear you, and we are in this together.

Just this week, the [Governor's] Office of Economic Development formally approved the Campus for Hope, a $200 million initiative that embodies the power of public-private partnership funded by the state and the private sector through the Campus for Hope Foundation. This groundbreaking project will provide life-changing resources for those experiencing homelessness by bringing together the state, local governments, and business community partners, the Campus for Hope exemplifies Nevada's commitment to innovative results-driven solutions. More than just a building, the campus represents the promise of a better future. Combining the collective will of the 63 of you—and me—we can build more than houses. We can convert Nevada's promise into reality: a place where every family can thrive, every community can grow, and every dream can find a home. That is the Nevada way.

Nevada is home to some of the best doctors, nurses, and hospitals in the country, but we have a significant challenge, we need more of them. With some of the lowest provider-to-patient ratios in the nation, far too many Nevadans are left waiting for care, or worse, going without it. This session, we are confronting this issue with a bold plan to modernize and strengthen our health care system. We are also removing barriers that prevent providers from focusing on what matters most: delivering high quality care. By 2028, all health insurance plans in Nevada will be required to adopt standardized and digitized prior authorization plans, thus reducing delays for patients and providers.

Concurrently, we are investing in partnerships that address both health care and economic development challenges. We are doubling our investment in graduate medical education, incentivizing providers to serve in underserved areas, and leveraging telemedicine. We are creating new career opportunities and ensuring that quality care reaches every corner of the state. These initiatives are grounded in a simple but profound belief that the strength of Nevada's communities begins with the health of it is people. As I mentioned earlier, at the heart of this effort is the creation of Nevada Health Authority, a streamlined agency designed to address our state's most pressing health care needs. This agency will include the Office of Mental Health to expand access to behavioral health services and ensure better coordination of care for Nevada's most vulnerable residents. We are building a system where families can trust they will find the care they need closer to home; where providers want to practice; and where every investment enhances the health and prosperity of our state because healthcare is more than just a service, it is a lifeline. It is an equalizer. It is a promise that no Nevadan, no matter where they live, will be left behind.

In 2023, we delivered the largest investment in K through 12 education in Nevada's history. We did it because we believe every Nevada child deserves an education that prepares them for careers, college, and life. We have invested the money—a lot of it—and we made a solid commitment to students, families, and educators. Together, we ensure that students facing the greatest challenges, those learning English, or those at risk of falling behind, or those with exceptional talents, receive the support they need and deserve. I am proud of what we have done, but folks, we can no longer accept the lack of funding as an excuse for chronic underperformance. I am a big believer in school choice. Some of you are too, and I recognize some of you are not. When it comes to our education system, let us ask ourselves two direct questions. One, are we satisfied with the status quo that results in our education system year after year, bouncing near the bottom of national metrics? I know I am not. And two, should we not collaborate more to close the achievement gaps plaguing our schools and challenge ourselves to try something different? To change the outcome, we must be willing to change the model. My view is—other states around the country are adopting similar views—no child should be trapped in a failing school because of their zip code or held down because of how much their parents or grandparents earn.

The Nevada Accountability and Education Act sets out four specific areas of how we intend to impose accountability, accelerate improvement, and give every student a legitimate shot at success. First, we are advancing policies that demand stricter accountability, equity, and excellence across every level of our education system. We are raising the bar for our schools, our school districts, and school boards. Second, we are expanding open enrollment policies to break down geographic barriers and provide transportation support to make choice available for all families. Every parent deserves the freedom to find the best educational setting for their child, no exceptions. Third, we are doubling down on teaching excellence. The Excellence in Education Fund will reward Nevada's highest performing teachers and administrators. Finally, we are addressing one of the most fundamental issues in education: early literacy. For those schools that are struggling, we will dedicate targeted resources to drive improvement while holding everyone accountable for results. If a school is found to be consistently underperforming, make no mistake, my bill proposes decisive action. We have done good work together. We must do better. Let us make a permanent difference in our schools.

The safety of our citizens continues to rank as a top priority, and in 2022 Nevada voters elected a sheriff to be their governor. Several years ago, laws were put on the books that softened criminal penalties, weakened judicial discretion in sentencing, tied the hands of prosecutors, and restricted justice for the victims of crime. In 2023, we set out to change that. I sponsored, and you passed, legislation strengthening certain elements of the Nevada's criminal code, but we must do more. As a part of my commitment to protecting Nevada families, I will be forwarding, for your consideration, the Safe Streets and Neighborhoods Act. This legislation supports victims of crimes, holds repeat and violent offenders accountable for their actions, and invests in curbing the abuse of drugs, which are often the central cause of criminal activity. Imagine a world where California is tougher on criminals than Nevada. That is the reality we face today. California voters recently approved stricter measures to address smash-and-grab crimes, lowering the threshold for felony prosecution and imposing enhanced penalties for repeat offenders. To restore a sense of law and order, my proposed legislation reduces the felony theft threshold and implements enhanced penalties for repeat offenders, regardless of the value involved. Let us make it harder for these career criminals to victimize Nevadans.

My bill also addresses a broad range of other public safety issues, including DUI [Driving Under the Influence] laws, domestic violence, bail policies, stalking, and cyberstalking. Perhaps most notable is that the Safe Streets and Neighborhoods Act prohibits the use of diversion courts for offenders who commit crimes against the most vulnerable amongst us: our children and the elderly. We cannot understate the role drug traffickers play in fueling a vicious cycle of addiction and crime. My bill takes direct aim at this crisis by reducing trafficking thresholds to stop illegal drugs and the criminals who push them. I know everyone here tonight believes strongly in the importance of public safety. Last session we made noteworthy progress and helped make our communities safer. Let us build on that momentum.

Our state is at a pivotal moment, emerging from the challenges of recent years and poised to reshape the economic future. To foster growth, we are rethinking economic development to focus on strategies that directly benefit businesses, workers, and families already established in our state.

By modernizing incentives, we are ensuring that industries that create high quality jobs, advance clean energy, and address essential needs like health care and childcare, are encouraged and rewarded. And by embracing innovation and sustainability we will be able to empower a diverse economy and strengthen local businesses. Targeted tax credits for childcare facilities, for example, help working families, but also support businesses in building a stronger, more inclusive workforce. Economic development is about more than dollars in deals, it is about creating opportunities that benefit every Nevadan. This effort is grounded in the principle that economic growth must uplift communities and improve lives. Through investments in infrastructure and strategic partnerships, we are closing gaps that have long held us back from meeting the needs of underserved rural areas and emerging industries. Nevada will not simply follow the future; we will define it.

In our state government, we have over 300 boards and commissions. Thanks to the legislature's passage of Senate Bill 431 last session, we made early strides in centralizing oversight, improving transparency, and implementing uniform standards for these boards and commissions. But it has become clear to me that our system of boards lacks the organization, the efficiency, and accountability that our citizens expect. That is why I asked my Director of Business and Industry, Doctor Kris Sanchez, to take a hard look at the functionality of the system and to evaluate the purpose of every board. He was tasked with finding ways to streamline, to consolidate, and to ensure these panels are performing to their maximum potential. We know many of these boards are necessary. They provide technical expertise, safeguard public interest, and help keep our community safe and strong. But we must ask ourselves, are these boards efficiently fulfilling their mission? Are they making the best use of your hard-earned tax dollars, or had they outlived their usefulness? Together, let us expand on what we did last session and finish the good work that Director Sanchez has already begun. We need an effective system of boards and commissions that reflects the needs and values of Nevada. A system that is smart, lean, and productive—smart, lean, and productive. Just a little color to that statement, I asked the Legislature not to get nervous when he plops that bill down on the table—I saw it, it is big, but we will get through it.

Two years ago, I said to you the right to vote is one of the most fundamental rights in American society. I also said that for our election system to function properly, it is vitally important to: (1) verify the identity of our voters, (2) ensure that all mail-in ballots are received by the time the polls close on Election Day.

On the first point, I argued that while we require people to have a valid form of ID for many daily functions, but not an ID to vote makes no sense. I vowed that if we could not reach an agreement that I would put it before the people and ask them to get it done. You know what happened? Nevada voters agreed with me, and Voter ID received more total votes than any candidate or any question on the 2024 ballot. And I expect it to pass overwhelmingly again in 2026.

On the second point, it makes zero sense to keep counting ballots four days after an election. We can be proud that Nevada is one of the easiest places to cast a vote, but it is time we make sure the votes are in and counted by Election Day. I have no doubt we can get this done. Working together with Secretary of State, Cisco [Francisco] Aguilar, we can enact a simple bipartisan fix to finish our elections on time. I would hope that this is one of the first bipartisan bills I signed. Honestly, I prefer not to go to the ballot on this issue, but if the Legislature chooses not to pass it, I will again lead an effort to take it to the voters and ask them to decide.

The fun part of the speech—the First Lady. Before I conclude tonight, I would like to recognize the First Lady, who does so much for our state. It is amazing how humble she is. The truth is, I could not effectively do this job without the First Lady by my side. She keeps me grounded and she is a steady and reliable voice of reason. She has her own full-time job and still has enough energy at the end of the day to listen to me and to give me sound advice—sometimes. She is an excellent role model, a terrific mother and grandmother, and the best friend a Governor could have. Donna Lombardo, thank you. Thank you for everything you do for me, our family, and for the Nevada families across the state.

In closing, I want to invoke the genius of Lincoln and Jefferson. To let us reaffirm that in this chamber tonight, there are no Republicans, no Democrats, just regular Nevadans who are bonded by our shared history that teaches us again and again, there are no challenges we cannot overcome if we summon the will to work together. The voters of Nevada hired us and tasked us with conducting their business efficiently and ethically.

Before you adjourn this session and return home, let us strike a solemn pledge to the people we represent, to do something remarkable that is worthy of being remembered in the areas of housing, health care, education, public safety and economic diversification. My fellow Nevadans, to succeed, we must focus on what unites us. We must set our sights on shared goals and rise above the harsh political rhetoric. In five months, we will be judged, you and me, by the results we achieve together.

In my first State of the State, I stood before you and said my administration will govern with transparency, candor, and integrity and we have kept that promise. Tonight, I stand ready to renew that commitment with equal resolve and enthusiasm. A century from now, let us enable our grandchildren's grandchildren to look back to 2025 as a time when Nevada's elected leaders were unrestrained by unnecessary interferences and followed the Nevada way. God bless our Nevada military service members deployed around the world, God bless Nevada, God bless you, and God bless America. Thank you.
