MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

STATE OF NEVADA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
CARSON CITY, February 23, 1912.

To the Honorable, the Senate and the Assembly:

Pursuant to section 9 of article 5 of the Constitution, I have convened your honorable bodies in extraordinary session, the purpose of which is to enact suitable legislation to relieve the following conditions in the fiscal affairs of the State, namely: That the General Fund in the State Treasury is exhausted and that, to enable the State to transact its business on a cash basis, provision must be made by the Legislature to borrow a sum sufficient to meet the emergency until such time as the state revenues can be adjusted to balance expenditures.

The borrowing power of the State, in time of peace, is limited, under the Constitution, to $300,000. At the beginning of the present fiscal year our outstanding indebtedness, under this limitation, was $83,000, with cash in the State Treasury applicable to the reduction thereof to a net indebtedness of $51,151.27. On such date there was available for investment in the State School Fund, $255,220.52, so that the State in effect will be able to borrow from itself.

The fact that the State, in 1903, 1905 and 1907, to go back no farther in our history, exercised its borrowing power to cover, in advance, deficits in state revenue over authorized expenditures, leaves the present emergency by no means anomalous in our fiscal affairs, save that it was not provided for in advance.

The failure to make advance provision for this depletion of the General Fund is not properly chargeable against the Legislature or myself, owing to the extreme difficulty of arriving at any clear understanding of the financial affairs of the State from the time-honored system of bookkeeping that has obtained in our State Government since the beginning. Nor is any state official justly blamable for not introducing innovations in a system that has always prevailed. Nevertheless, I am convinced that the financial conditions of the State should not be left a mystery which must be worked out on the principle of the solution of the puzzle.

The following table shows the net cash balances in the State Treasury at the beginning of each of the last four fiscal years:

January 1, 1909.....	$749,645.77
January 1, 1910.....	534,542.11
January 1, 1911.....	590,035.97
January 1, 1912.....	491,922.73

The total receipts of the State Treasury during each of the past three years were as follows:

1909.....	$1,082,254.74
1910.....	998,557.47
1911.....	994,882.25

The total expenditures as shown by the public accounts are as follows:

1909.....	$1,297,358.40
1910.....	1,048,132.26
1911.....	1,092,995.49

The total expenditures, as above given, include bond purchases, which are not properly an expense but an investment, and bond redemptions, which have a status quite distinct from the expenses of the State Government during any given year, in the ordinary sense, since it amounts to the liquidation of an indebtedness contracted in previous years. The expense of the State Government, the odd-numbered years, is markedly increased over that of the alternate years by the cost of the legislative session and the fact that an excess portion of the expenditures arising from special appropriations has always occurred the legislative year as compared with the following year. Excluding bond purchases and redemptions and the costs of sessions of the Legislature, we have the following comparison of state expenditures during each of the past three years:

1909.....	$995,799.09
1910.....	888,132.26
1911.....	934,740.64

From the foregoing it is clear that the present deficit in the General Fund is not attributable to any abnormal increase in state expenditures. On the contrary they indicate that at the conclusion of the present fiscal year the expenditures of the two years will possibly show some reduction over the previous biennial period.

The receipts of the General Fund during each of the past three years are as follows:

1909.....	$451,489.46
1910.....	451,463.95
1911.....	448,639.25

The figures for 1911 are misleading in this respect, that during such year the sum of $73,945.80 was transferred from the Prison Building Fund to the General Fund, which swelled the actual receipts of that fund to that extent. On the other hand, the receipts from counties into the General Fund the same year was less by $58,307 than in 1910. Approximately $30,000 of this decrease is due to the deflection of all poll-tax receipts to the counties, instead of one-half coming to the state as formerly. Other items of decrease bring the falling off of receipts by the General Fund in 1911 over former years to approximately $75,000.

The net cash balance in the General Fund at the beginning of each of the past four fiscal years was as follows:

January 1, 1909.....	$451,082.20
January 1, 1910.....	241,398.18
January 1, 1911.....	175,020.50
January 1, 1912 (constructive).....	44,514.16

There was an apparent overdraft of the General Fund at the beginning of the present fiscal year of $20,305.42 which arose from the fact that on January 1, 1912, a total of $107,488.20 was still due from delayed county settlements, $64,819.58 of which belonged to the General Fund, thus leaving for comparison purposes the constructive net balance stated.

It is clear from the foregoing that the reduction, in 1909, of that portion of the state tax rate which goes into the General Fund, from 47 cents to 39.6 cents, on each hundred dollars' valuation of taxable property, together with the deflection of all poll-tax receipts to the counties, is responsible for the existing deficit. Moreover, that had there not been a surplus in the General Fund at the beginning of 1909, the deficit would possibly have occurred two years sooner. A comparison by years of the warrants drawn against the General Fund with the receipts of the General Fund for such years shows the following net excess of disbursements over receipts:

1909 (legislative year).....	$209,888.12
1910 (non-legislative year).....	66,377.68
1911 (legislative year).....	195,325.92

By reference to the table previously given of the receipts of the General Fund, it is shown that for the three above years they were practically constant, yet this constancy was maintained in 1911 by the transfer mentioned from the Prison Building Fund, which practically overcame a decrease of about $75,000 from the ordinary receipts of the General Fund.

It is conclusive from the foregoing table that, on the basis of the present receipts of the General Fund and after making due allowances for the biennial sessions of the Legislature and the variation in expenditures the year of such sessions with the alternate years, the General Fund must be increased by at least $150,000 per year to balance income with normal disbursements.

Merely to borrow a sum sufficient to tide over the present emergency would but advance the day of a most serious reckoning—when the General Fund would be depleted and the State would have exhausted its constitutional borrowing power. It is therefore imperative that the legislature readjust the state tax rate adequately to increase the receipts of the General Fund.

The situation involves choice between two modes of procedure. One, to let the existing system of taxation continue and increase the state tax rate by 15 cents, applying the increase to the General Fund. The other, to increase the state tax rate by 10 cents for the benefit of the General Fund and, coupled with which, the Legislature to provide for the creation of a State Tax Commission to readjust and equalize property valuations throughout the State; depending on such commission to bring about a substantial increase in the aggregate value of the taxable property of the State through such readjustment and equalization.

I need not more than call attention to the fact that taxation is distinctly a business proposition, and that the alignment of the public for or against any existing or proposed system of taxation is not on political lines, but very pronouncedly accordingly as it affects the pocketbook of each citizen. The last session of the Assembly showed no division on party lines in the consideration of a proposed taxation measure, and had it not been for the lateness of the session when the bill was finally perfected by the House and transmitted to the Senate, so that its consideration for such reason was prevented, it is fair to assume that the honorable Senate would unquestionably have so treated it.

I shall make no effort to persuade any member of the Legislature as to what course he should take in this matter. With this presentation I submit the subject to your honorable bodies in the firm belief that you will be guided by what you believe to be for the best interests of the State.

In conclusion, I have only to wish for and anticipate the same patriotic cooperation by both houses of the Legislature and all political parties therein, with the Executive, in solving the problems presented, that so signally characterized the last extraordinary session of your honorable bodies.

TASKER L. ODDIE, Governor.

MESSAGES FROM THE GOVERNOR

STATE OF NEVADA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
CARSON CITY, February 24, 1912.

To the Honorable the Senate and Assembly:

I have received a communication from the Justices of the Supreme Court relative to the publication of the Revised Statutes and Digest of Nevada Reports, a copy of which I am transmitting with this message.

The communication is self-explanatory, and as it appears that there is a sufficient urgent necessity for bringing matters relative to the preparation and publication of the Revised Statutes and Digest to your attention, the same is submitted for such appropriate action relative thereto as you may deem the facts warrant.

TASKER L. ODDIE, Governor.

CARSON CITY, February 26, 1912.

To His Excellency, TASKER L. ODDIE, Governor of Nevada.

SIR: The last session of the Legislature appropriated the sum of $8,000 for the printing and binding of a new code, and the further sum of $1,500 for assistance to be employed by the Commission. The work of the Commission, in its many details, has far exceeded what was originally contemplated, has taken much more time and labor, and made it necessary to publish the work in two volumes instead of one. The index, involving a great deal of painstaking labor, is now practically completed and the State Printer will shortly be able to complete his part of the work.

As the appropriation made for printing was based upon a smaller work, we are advised by the State Printer that an additional appropriation will be necessary to complete his part of the work. Notwithstanding a full realization of the urgency of the work, and the making of every effort for the past two years to complete it, it was impossible to complete the work with proper care and attention prior to January 1st, when the new code went into effect.

The Commission continued the employment of Mr. E. T. Patrick and provided him with an assistant for a portion of the time. The appropriation of $1,500 for this purpose became exhausted before we were in a position to dispense with his services, and we were accordingly obliged to continue him in our employ until he had earned approximately $500 over and above the appropriation for additional services. We dispensed with the services of Mr. Patrick as soon as possible and for several months past we have continued to work ourselves without his assistance.

As the size of the compilation was greatly increased over that originally intended, we advised the Secretary of State to make a material increase in the charge to be made for the sale of the work, which was accordingly raised to $14 per set, which we deem will more than compensate for any increased expense of the work.

The last session of the Legislature also authorized the Justices of the Supreme Court to contract for the purchase of Mr. E. T. Patrick's Digest of the Nevada Supreme Court Reports, for a sum not exceeding $2,500, and appropriated $4,500 for the printing of the same after being so purchased. Shortly after the adjournment of the Legislature it was learned that Bancroft-Whitney Company of San Francisco was about to issue a combined digest of Nevada Reports and extensive notes on the same. The bad business policy of two digests appearing at the same time was apparent, and if the digest which Bancroft-Whitney Company of San Francisco was about to publish was satisfactory, it was deemed best not to proceed with the Patrick digest. After negotiations with the Bancroft-Whitney Company, it submitted the advance sheets of its digest and notes. Upon examination of them it was apparent there was much room for improvement, besides it did not include all the Nevada Reports, or any digest of federal cases, originating in this State which were to be included in the Patrick digest, while, upon the other hand, the notes not contemplated in the Patrick digest were a material and very valuable addition.

The matter finally resulted in an understanding between E. T. Patrick and Bancroft-Whitney Company, which met with our approval, that Mr. Patrick should revise the digest previously prepared by Bancroft-Whitney Company and bring the same down to date, and include the digest of the federal cases originating in Nevada and prepare a table of cases cited, and in other respects perfect the digest, which was then to become and be called the "E. T. Patrick Digest," and that when the manuscript thus prepared was presented to us, and we found that it was in accordance with the conditions prescribed in the Act of the Legislature of 1911, we would purchase the same from Mr. Patrick for the State and approve his claim. Under the arrangement mutually agreed upon, Mr. Patrick was to make an allowance to Bancroft-Whitney Company out of the money he was to receive for the work they had done upon the manuscript, and the company was to deliver, free, to the State, two hundred and fifty bound copies of the digest and notes, for official distribution. We, upon our part, were to recommend that the manuscript be not published by this State. By the adoption of this agreement, the State is provided with the digests sufficient for the needs of its officers, and, in addition to the digest part of the work, notes on Nevada cases, a work scarcely less valuable than the digest itself, thus making a saving of $4,500, the cost of publication. The price of the combined set is fixed by Bancroft-Whitney Company at $17.50 per volume; the value of the books furnished the State would represent a gross value of $4,375. The Bancroft-Whitney Company has further agreed to sell the digest without the notes, if so desired, to Nevada attorneys at $10 per volume, the price fixed for the sale of the digest under the Act above mentioned.

In view of the fact that an additional appropriation is essentially necessary to complete the publication of the code, and that the appropriation for the publication of the digest is no longer necessary, we respectfully recommend for your consideration the advisability of calling these matters to the attention of the Legislature for appropriate legislation thereon.

Very respectfully,

JAMES G. SWEENEY,
G. F. TALBOT,
F. H. NORCROSS.

Justices of the Supreme Court.

STATE OF NEVADA, EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
CARSON CITY, February 26, 1912.

To the Honorable the Senate and Assembly:

I herewith submit for your consideration the subject of the repeal of sections 3786, 3787, 3788, 3789, and 3790, Revised Laws of Nevada, commonly known as the "Mortgage Tax Law." There is an urgent demand over the State for its repeal, and I so recommend.
